I believe that is all that I have at this time, Mr. President.

SPEAKER BAACK: Thank you, Mr. Clerk. I am going to make a brief announcement about the loaves of bread that you do have on your desks this morning in observance of Ag Week. And, in particular, Bake and Take Day is today and tomorrow of the Nebraska Wheathearts. Hope you enjoy these small loaves of bread. Known as the staff of life for centuries, we realize even more fully today the importance of wheat products in our daily diet, low in fat and sugar and high in protein and fiber, what other food is so beneficial and still tastes so good. With best wishes, the Nebraska Wheathearts. Tootie Johannson who is a constituent of mine is the President of the Nebraska Wheathearts this year, so we do thank them for those loaves of bread. We will now proceed to Item 5 on the agenda, to the Mother of the Year introductions.

SERGEANT AT ARMS: Mr. Speaker, your committee escorting the Mother of the Year and presently the Junior Mother of the Year.

SPEAKER BAACK: The Nebraska Mothers Association is the official sponsor of the Mother of the Year award and accompanying the honored mothers and their senators is Betty Loudon who is the president of this organization. For now, now we will have Senator Hefner who will introduce the Mother of the Year.

SENATOR HEFNER: Mr. Speaker and members of the Legislature, it is indeed an honor for me to introduce the 1991 Mother of the Year to you this morning. Joan Burney is from Hartington which is located in northeast Nebraska in Cedar County. I have known Joan Burney and her husband Kip for a number of years.
